In a recent 12-day period, we had 6 babies born to CPO girls, at 3 different hospitals! My assistant, Lisa Barricks, and I were running like crazy. In the midst of all of the busy-ness, we looked at each other, and said, "We need help." We acknowledged that we just could not keep up the pace, with as fast as CPO is growing. We made an immediate decision to expand the Leadership Team. I extended an invitation to Kelly Jacobson to become one of my assistants, and she accepted, without hesitation. I must tell you that Kelly and Steven have 6 children (3 bio and 3 adopted through CPO), ranging in age from 5 to 14, and she homeschools! We have already given her a number of assignments, which she has carried out with efficiency and grace. In the next newsletter, I will ask Kelly to introduce herself. Lisa and I are so grateful.

From the beginning of CPO, in 1983, our vision has been to provide a viable, meaningful alternative to abortion to the girls/women who come to us. We are committed to helping each one do what she feels God has called her to do. We have Parenting Classes for the girls who make a Parenting Plan, and a Birth Mom Support Group, for those girls who choose an Adoption Plan. We are not about finding babies for families. We are about finding families for the babies whose birth moms choose to place them in loving Christian homes.

We could not do any of this without your help and the help of over 50 men and women who volunteer for us, on an almost daily basis. None of us takes a salary. We are an all-volunteer organization. Please, prayerfully, consider the volunteer opportunities that are listed in this issue. We appreciate what each of you does for CPO.

In His Service,
Cheryl

*"Adoption is not a breaking of trust
but a keeping of faith,
not an abdication of responsibility
but an act of redemption, not the abandonment of a baby but an abandonment of self for a baby's sake."*

God wants you to fly. He wants you to fly free of yesterday's guilt. He wants you to fly free of today's fears.
He wants you to fly free of tomorrow's grave. Sin, fear, and death. These are the mountains He has moved.
These are the prayers He will answer. That is the fruit He will grant. That is what He longs to do: He longs to set you free so you can fly...fly home.

AND THE ANGELS WERE SILENT

Thank You!

The CPO Christmas Party was wonderful!! We wish to thank Adam and Michelle Palmer, and their children Emma, Noah and Dorothy for providing beautiful music. The Holland children also entertained us with their musical gifts, as did Liliana Gullo. I pray I can sing like that, when I get to Heaven!! It is not happening down here. A small group from Jenks First Baptist planned and orchestrated all of the games and stories for the (MANY) children, and also presented beautiful gift bags for our Birth Moms and Parenting Moms. Ray Mack continues to amaze us with his abilities in serving and hospitality. Tracie Roesslein did her usual great job of coordinating the food and CLEAN-UP. Thanks to her husband, Alan, as well. There were many people who brought food and helped with the preparation and serving. Thanks to each of you! And, the biggest thanks go to Jennifer Bauman, who planned the entire evening! You are awesome, Jennifer!

We wish to thank Kirk of the Hills Presbyterian Church for donating money to buy a new couch for the family room of our Transitional Home. KOTH has been a supporter of CPO for many years, and we are so grateful!

The Women of the Word Ministry at The Landing Community Church made 13 baby blankets for our babies! This is a huge blessing for these little ones, and we are so grateful to these wonderful women. God bless you, Ladies!

INVITATION PRINTING SPONSORED BY CONOCOPHILLIPS

sorrow may last for the night His joy comes with the morning

I received the following letter from Bruce Clutter. I had sent out an e-mail, asking for prayers for several families who had had interrupted adoptions, and the Hogan's, whose birth mom, Rebecca, had given birth to a dear little stillborn baby girl. I was so touched by Bruce's letter, that I asked for his permission to reprint it here. I love how God uses His people to bring words of comfort and encouragement to one another.

Dear Mr. & Mrs. Hogan,

Last night I had a dream about a baby who died right after birth. In the dream, my wife, Lynn, and I were in the hospital, holding the baby, but the baby couldn't survive and died.

As I thought about why I was having this dream, I recalled the experience we had 10 years ago in Hillcrest Hospital, holding a baby girl who was born prematurely - a girl we were planning to adopt. The girl died shortly after birth, as Lynn was holding her. It was a heart tearing time for us, and it took time to overcome the grief of the experience. Lynn still has ongoing contact with the birth mother and grandmother. They consider Lynn one of their closest confidants, and they call her to invite her to birthday parties and such. Our pain was quelled through time and prayer.

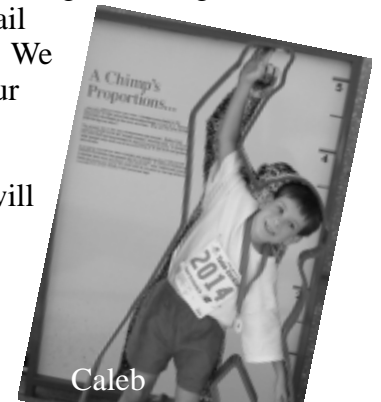

But the greatest blessing that came out of this experience is that some months later Cheryl was alerted to a baby that had just been born, and the mother told the hospital staff she wanted to place the baby for adoption. The hospital called Cheryl, and because of our recent experience, Cheryl thought of us. We got a call the day the baby was born, asking if we wanted to adopt. Although the baby we lost was a girl, and this new baby was a boy, we had a sense that we should proceed and adopt the boy.

We have two birth children, and three adopted children. Of all our five children, this boy who came from out of nowhere has the most pleasant disposition. He is always optimistic, friendly, singing to himself, and simply fun to be with. His teachers and others are always commenting to us what a remarkable child he is. He became a Christian at an early age, and he loves the Lord. He is simply a joy to have as a child, and we consider him (as we do all our children) a gift from God. We will celebrate his 9th birthday this Sunday.

I share these things with you, not knowing you, because I believe God allowed me to have that dream last night to bring all this to memory. And then I saw Cheryl's email below with the news of your tragedy. We don't know how God will work in your circumstances, but I am convinced of one thing - He will work in your circumstances. And, in His way, He will eventually turn this sorrow into joy. Please be encouraged - He will bring comfort as only He can. And you never know how He will use this in your life and Rebecca's life. We will be in prayer for you and the birth mom.

In Him,

Bruce Clutter
